

Social and Emotional Learning Readiness and Engagement Analysis

A two-day learning visit to your school district to develop a comprehensive report including practical recommendations for systemic SEL implementation.

A CASEL team of experts will meet with district leadership, visit schools, and hear from stakeholders about the current state of and priority for SEL. After the visit, CASEL will develop and share a comprehensive and actionable report.

How the CASEL team will learn about your district:

- Analyze district demographic, achievement, climate, budget, and discipline data
- Examine organizational structure and current strategic priorities, including where SEL fits
- Meet with the superintendent, board members, union leadership, and other top district leadership
- Meet with key departments including Teaching and Learning, Research and Evaluation, Equity, Human Resources, and Professional Learning
- Conduct school visits, classroom observations, and conversations with principals, teachers, parents, and students.

The CASEL team's detailed report will enable you to:

- Identify strengths and challenges in your current strategies, programs, and approaches.
- Honor and build on the good work already underway in your system.
- Connect the dots among programs, priorities, and plans so you can hit the ground running with an action plan.
- Provide the external, third-party recommendations that communities, school boards, and staff members often look for.
- Take advantage of the deep expertise and experience we have built from working closely with many of the school districts—large and small—that are on the vanguard of implementing quality SEL.

CASEL offers this opportunity to a limited number of districts per year.
